OUR FEDERATION MAKES HEADWAY

By Rabbi Ferdinand M. Isserman

The small but interested group which attended the annual meeting of the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies went away impressed with the report of the splendid work being done by its constituent societies. In the few years since its organization Federation has made great progress. The social workers, officials of Federation and citizens who maintained it are to be congratulated on their achievement. But though progress is evident, all the reports emphasized the inadequacy of the means at their disposal. Every phase of Federation's work needs more money, and a community which has splendid philanthropic traditions will welcome the opportunities for greater usefulness. If all the Jews of Toronto had been able to listen in on the meeting, the $150,000 which Federation will need next year would easily be raised.

AN EXILE FROM THE SYNAGOGUE

On July 27th, 1656, Baruch Spinoza, then twenty-three years of age and the scion of an aristocratic Amsterdam Jewish family, was excommunicated by a rabbinical decree for having uttered heretical views. On February 21st, 1927, the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of his death, the Bnai Brith organization, the largest and most influential Jewish fraternal organization in the world, has asked its constituent lodges to hold formal memorial meetings in his honour. History has its ironies. The exile from the synagogue is to be honoured by the children of the synagogue. An outcast from the Jewish fold is proudly to be remembered by the professors of Judaism. By his day and age, by his Jewish as well as Christian contemporaries, Spinoza was regarded as a blasphemer and atheist, a menace to the morals of the youth and a foe to religion. Years after his death Germany's leading Christian preacher, called him "the God-intoxicated man." Truly, the heretic of one generation has become the prophet of the next.

OF FULL POLISH DESCENT

A circular letter from the Toronto Symphony Association, advertising a concert, brought the information that the soloist, Helen Pankowska, was of full Polish descent. I wonder whether the authorities wanted to assure their clientele or prospective patrons that the soloist was not tainted with Jewish blood. Of what importance can it be to music-lovers whether an artist is of full Polish descent, whatever that means, or of pure Nordic descent? Are we beginning to apply the racial superiorities myth even to art, which in the past has been considered universal? Was Al Jolson any the less entertaining because he is Jewish? An association devoted to the cultivation of the arts stultifies itself when it even slightly caters to prejudices which fetter and shackle the free spirit. Without such free spirit there can be no art.

THE BEST JEWISH ATHLETE IN AMERICA

This week-end the sport-loving element of our community will have as its guest the foremost Jewish athlete in America, in the person of Benny Friedman, 1926 captain of the Michigan University rugby team.

In Michigan Benny Friedman is as important a personage as Henry Ford or Ty Cobb. Though the rugby season is short, Benny Friedman has been the subject of more head lines and close-ups in the Detroit press than any divorce heroine or any ten United States senators or judges. When all other topics grow stale, a write-up of one of Benny's gridiron exploits will still gain the indulgence of the jaded newspaper circulators.

During the past two years Benny Friedman has been undisputedly recognized as the best football player in America. Possessing all the physical requisites of a rugby player, and perfect in the mechanics of the game, Benny Friedman has brought into his play an exceptionally quick intelligence and an unusually inspiring personality; and these, perhaps more than anything else, were the factors that made him so great as a player and a captain. In 1926, Friedman was the unanimous choice of all experts for the position of quarter-back, and captain on the mythical All-American team, and it is more than probable that he will be selected on the all-time all-American team. In addition to his eminence in football, Friedman has also won some fame in basketball and baseball, having been awarded his letters in these games as well. Benny Friedman is assuredly one of the leading college athletes in America.

We all know that Americans are given to exaggeration in their worship of success. Lacking the finer standards of more cultivated peoples, they can only think of the pragmatic norm of success as a basis for evaluating achievement. The person who wins is the person who has done the right thing. And then we find Americans heaping adulations on worthless individuals only because they have managed to do better than their fellows in some undertaking. They erect pedestals for men who have accomplished nothing more than make themselves wealthy and powerful.

And this tendency is seen in its grossest manifestations in the sphere of sports. Americans often grow hysterical in their worship of athletes whose only claim to prominence is their ability to win. They do not concern themselves with the personalities of their heroes. They do not inquire whether these idols represent in their activities and accomplishments the ideals which inspirit the game. Americans thoughtlessly lavish admiration and love on their Dempseys and Ruths—men who represent only physical prowess—and stultify the ideals of American sportsmanship.

Sport at its best, of course, expresses the characteristic potentialities of a people when not under the strain of the struggle for existence. Take a person in a moment of relaxation. He is at ease and at peace with everything and everybody. What does he, while in that mood, consider to be the proper code of conduct among people? He will not be grasping or avaricious. He will think that the proper thing to do

WEDDINGS

Gold-Abrahamson

The marriage of Beatrice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Abrahamson, to Harry Hart Gold, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Gold, was solemnized Tuesday, February 15, in the ball room of the Mount Royal Hotel, Rabbi H. Abramowitz officiating. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a beaded gown of white crepe romaine. Her veil of Brussels lace was arranged in cap effect with clusters of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of butterfly roses orchids and lilies-of-the-valley. The maid of honour, Miss Sadie Abrahamson, sister of the bride, wore a period gown of blue taffeta and carried a bouquet of Premier roses and mauve sweet peas. Dave Gold, brother of the groom, was best man. The bridesmaids were Misses Frances Abrahamson, sister of the bride, wearing pink taffeta, bouffant; Beatrice Abrahamson, cousin of the bride, green taffeta, bouffant; Ethel Spector, green taffeta, bouffant, and Beatrice Friedman, rose colour taffeta, bouffant. All wore hats to match their gown and carried bouquets of Columbia roses and sweet peas in pastel shades. Groomsmen were Dave Abrahamson, brother of the bride, Louis Abrahamson, cousin of the bride, Arthur Bald and Jack Spector. Miss Jeanette Slabotsky, flower girl, wore a frock of orchid canton crepe and carried a basket of sweet peas. Mrs. A. Abrahamson, mother of the bride, wore a pearl grey sequin gown with mauve beads, black hat with mauve bird of paradise and a corsage of American Beauty roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Mrs. A. Gold, mother of the groom, wore a black beaded gown trimmed with rhinestones, a black hat with black bird of paradise and a corsage of American Beauty roses and lilies-of-the-valley. A dinner and reception were held for 250 guests. The out-of-town guests were Mrs. B. A. Portigal, of Brandon, Man., Mr. and Mrs. B. Aron, of New York, and Miss Fay Krenitz, of New York. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hart Gold will spend their honeymoon in New York, Atlantic City and other points. Going away the bride wore a two-piece costume of flowered gold cloth blouse and black velvet skirt with felt hat to match and a coat of bronzed Alaska seal. The hall was decorated with ferns, palms and southern smilax. Flower girl, Fannie Abrahamson, was in yellow georgette trimmed with lace and ribbons and carried a basket of sweet peas. Gifts to the attendants were: French cut steel bag to the maid of honour; cigarette lighter to the best man; to the bridesmaids, sterling silver bracelets; sterling silver cuff links to the groomsmen, and sterling silver bracelets to the flower girls.

Deckelbaum-Selette

The marriage of Jennie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Selette, to Harry Deckelbaum, son of L. Deckelbaum, was solemnized Tuesday, February 15, at Bnai Jacob Synagogue, Rabbi Becker officiating. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore white crepe romaine trimmed with silver lace. Her veil of silk net, arranged in cap effect, was caught with clusters of orange blossoms. She carried Ophelia roses and lilies-of-the-valley. The maid-of-honour, Miss Leah Selette, wore a pale pink georgette gown trimmed with lace and carried Premier roses. The best man was Victor Deckelbaum, brother of the groom. Bridesmaids were Misses Hilda Selette, sister of the bride, in rose colored taffeta, trimmed with French flowers; Jennie Berman, shell pink georgette, with skirt of fringe; and Sarah Greenberg, in nile green taffeta, who all carried bouquets of Columbia roses and sweet peas in pastel shades. Groomsmen were Louis Stein, Moe Kushner and Harry Sumbad. The flower girl, Sylvia Deckelbaum, wore pink crepe de chine in old-fashioned style and carried a basket of rose petals. The mother of the bride, Mrs. M. Selette, wore a black crepe romaine beaded gown with corsage of American Beauty roses. Mrs. H. Deckelbaum, sister-in-law of the groom, wore rosewood crepe romaine trimmed with fringe, with a corsage of American Beauty roses. At the reception there were 200 guests. Mrs. L. Ranz, of Philadelphia, was an out-of-town guest. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Deckelbaum are spending their honeymoon in Atlantic City.

Miller-Lippman

The marriage of Alty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Lippman, to Irving Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Miller, took place on Saturday evening, February 12, at Jamaica, N.Y. Both formerly of Montreal.

WEDDINGS

Klein—Vilinsky

The marriage of Kate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Vilinsky, to Sam Klein, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Klein, was solemnized Tuesday, February 15, at the Prince of Wales salon, Windsor Hotel, Rabbi J. Berger officiating. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of white beaded chiffon. Her veil of hand-made Point de Venise lace was arranged in cap effect and trimmed with orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of orchids and lilies-of-the-valley. The maid of honour, Miss Celia Klein, sister of the groom, wore a beaded gown of peach chiffon and carried a bouquet of roses and mauve sweet peas. The best man was Jack Klein, brother of the groom. Bridesmaids were Misses Anna Vilinsky, sister of the bride, in a beaded gown of maize georgette; Estelle Vilinsky, sister of the bride, beaded gown of white georgette; Anna Klein, sister of the groom, beaded gown of green georgette; and Mildred Klein, cousin of the groom, mauve georgette, trimmed with beads. They all wore hats and shoes to match their gowns, and carried bouquets of Ophelia roses and mauve sweet peas. The groomsmen were Dr. George Strean, Ben Scherzer, Myer Insky and Sam Gold. The flower girl, Phyllis Merson, niece of the groom, wore mauve georgette, and carried a basket of pink roses. Ushers were Harry Becker and Dr. R. G. Docks. The mother of the bride, Mrs. M. Vilinsky, wore a black chiffon gown, trimmed with metallic cloth, with hat to match and corsage of orchids. The mother of the groom, Mrs. S. Klein, wore a beaded gown of black crepe with hat to match and corsage of orchids. A reception was held for one and seventy-five guests. Mr. and Mrs. Sam Klein are spending their honeymoon in New York, Atlantic City, Washington and Lakewood. Out-of-town guests were Misses Frances and Sophie Becker, Harry Becker, of New York, Mr. and Mrs. J. Eisman, of Toronto, and Hyman Kaplan of Pittsburgh.

Every Friday

The following letter received by members of the Holy Blossom Synagogue reveals anxiety on Bond Street:

"Dear Member:

"From three hundred to five hundred people have been attending our regular Friday evening services. But discouraging has it been indeed to the officers of the congregation and to the Rabbi to see how small a percentage of these worshippers at the services are members of our own congregation. You can easily understand how chagrined are those who work and toil to make our services impressive, inspiring and worthy of God's glory, to learn that on Friday evening some of the members of our congregation have social functions, theatre parties, dinner parties, etc. This does not bespeak the finest Jewish spirit nor that co-operation with the leaders of the synagogue who endeavour to make the faith of our fathers a source of inspiration. At a recent meeting of the Board of Trustees, the resolution was unanimously carried that the members of Holy Blossom be earnestly urged to plan their social functions on the six evenings of the week when there are no synagogue services. Why not reserve one evening a week for communion with God and for reflection on our real work in life? The synagogue which you maintain gives you such an evening. Why not take advantage of it? Why not spend your Friday evening with your children in a house of God where ideals are emphasized and upheld? It will be a means of combatting the spirit of materialism which is so dominant. It will give your children a guiding force in life. It will give to the traditional Sabbath eve a poetic warmth and glow. Your co-operation in not planning social functions for Friday evenings and your attendance at the synagogue services will mean a finer Judaism and a congregation functioning more nobly. Judaism is a living faith. Will you not help to keep it alive for your children?"

In other words, the very people who maintain Holy Blossom Synagogue do not attend Friday evening services, and the six other evenings of the week are either not enough for social activities or not so good as Friday for these functions. Also most of those who attend are not "members of our own congregation." And although the letter does not say so, most of the worshippers are not only not members but they are not even Jews. There are many reasons for this situation, none of which can be charged to the rabbi. Rabbi Isserman is a man of ability, unusual earnestness and sincerity, a forceful speaker. This synagogue is not depopulated of Jews by tedium or triviality on his part.

What is happening in Holy Blossom is indicative of what is happening in other synagogues and many churches all over this broad country. A Commission on Increased Lay Activities in the Episcopal Church brought in a dismal report about the nation-wide lay indifference, admitting in part: "The adequate solution of increasing and maintaining the active and effective interest of the laity in the work of the church is essential to the continuance of the life of the church itself. Without the enlistment of active enthusiasm the church must live a maimed and halting life."

Ask the very supporters of a synagogue why they don't go. All the "reasons" you hear on analysis turn out to be excuses, alibis. The criticism may concern the rabbi: he is long-winded, doesn't talk long enough, talks above the heads of his hearers, talks down to them and makes them feel like children; or the ritual: too long, too short, too dry, a nuisance; or the seats, which are too hard, high or dusty; the ventilation, which is too close or too drafty; the synagogue, which is too far away or something; the women, stuck-up for no good cause; the men shouldn't wear hats, the men should all wear hats and talesim. Such excuses don't apply to the high holy days, of course. There is no real reason why a professed, paying member of the synagogue should not attend most of its services. If he doesn't it is because of indifference, indolence or just plain preference for cards, theatre, chat, etc.

The number of synagogues and temples erected elsewhere at great cost is no sign that indifference is less where money and stones are more, either. The grand, costly immense synagogue rarely means anything except the size of the holy day crowd. For Friday use it would shrink very perceptibly. Its members come to life at the high holy days and hibernate the others, so that the gorgeous edifice proves the opulence of the congregation, not its spiritual growth; no one pinched himself to help build it. . . . So, one touch of empty pews make the world of churches kin.

FEBRUARY 18, 1927 — VOLUME VIII, NUMBER 17

Just why the Holy Blossom Synagogue is grieved to see how the Goyim outweigh the Jews at services would be hard to guess. Doesn't the synagogue advertise its Friday services in the daily papers? Toward whom is this advertising directed if not toward Gentiles? Certainly the members know that there are services and where their synagogue is located. The synagogue should be pleased with the result of its investment. If it really wants to attract Jewish non-members to services, why, having decided to advertise, does it not advertise in the Jewish papers first? f.f.c.

Miss Annie Friedlander, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. E. Friedlander, of Montreal, was united in marriage, to L. Julius M. Frankenburg. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Finkelstein of New York, Mr. and Mrs. H. Vineberg, Miss Vineberg, Mr. and Mrs. Lyon Silverman, Miss Hattie Silverman, A. Nathan and Misses Gussie and Pauline Levine. Mr. Finkelstein was best man; Helen Finkelstein, flower-girl; Herbert Finkelstein, page. The bride wore white taffeta with flounces of chiffon and white tulle veil, and carried hyacinths and lilies-of-the-valley. Her ornament was a pearl pendant from the groom. A mass meeting was held in Empire Hall, under the auspices of the Hebrew Philanthropic Society to consider the establishment of a Jewish orphanage. M. Colle, president, presided. Lazarus Cohen, Peter Bercovitch, Dr. H. Lightstone, Dr. Lauterman and S. Lerner, spoke. A resolution, moved by J. Goldstein and seconded by Laz Cohen, called for a committee from societies and congregations to consider the matter. J. Friedman and A. Adelstein were among the officers of the society. Woolf Missell, aged eighty-six, died at his home, McGill College Avenue. He left two sons, David and Joseph, of Montreal, and four daughters, Mesdames John Michaels, Harry Michaels, Jacobson and Silver, of Liverpool. Bnai Jacob Synagogue on Cadieux Street was re-dedicated. The perpetual light was lighted by H. Pearson, vice-president. D. Sperber, ex-president, handed the key to L. Kert, president. Rabbis de Sola, Sprintz, Ashinsky, of Pittsburgh, and Idelson, of Toronto, were commissioned to bring the four scrolls of the Law into the synagogue. G. M. White was called to the dais and showed the ark empty. Rabbi de Sola said in his speech that every Jew guilty of sharp practice or dishonesty contravened the name of God and that disloyalty to the government was a disgrace to the Jew. G. M. White gave the white marble steps, ark, brass rails and Sepher Torah. Among officers and committee members for the celebration were: I. Kert, M. A. Lauterman, Levy Freedman, C. Hilf, L. Adler, U. Pearson, L. Japhe, M. Sperber, J. Garmaise, W. Simon, S. Pearson, J. Shalinsky, L. Markovitz, M. Stern, H. Rosenthal, L. Adler, N. Sperber, J. Lightstone, J. Rosen. Miss Nellie Vineberg, of Sherbrooke, was the guest of Mrs. S. Fels. Mrs. D. Goldberg and daughter were visiting Mr. and Mrs. B. Lawrance, of Toronto.

NORTHERN ONTARIO CANADA

Northern Ontario, now open for settlement at fifty cents per acre, contains millions of acres of the finest agricultural land in the world. Its resources in lumber, mineral, water power, fish, game and scenery are immense. The land calls for men to cultivate it, and in return will give health, comfort and prosperity.

What settlers say of the soil, climate, farming and forest life, is told in a most attractive booklet issued under the direction of the Honourable John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario. Full instructions in regards to acquiring a title to these rich agricultural lands are also given.

"What price comfort?"

Reckoning up all the incidentals it is impossible to see how family wash can be done at home any more cheaply than at our moderate prices. The big factor then is the convenience or comfort of sending it out and knowing that, regardless of weather conditions, it will be returned to you on schedule time each week uniformly well done. Choose from five different services. Let us explain these with our prices. Phone to-day.

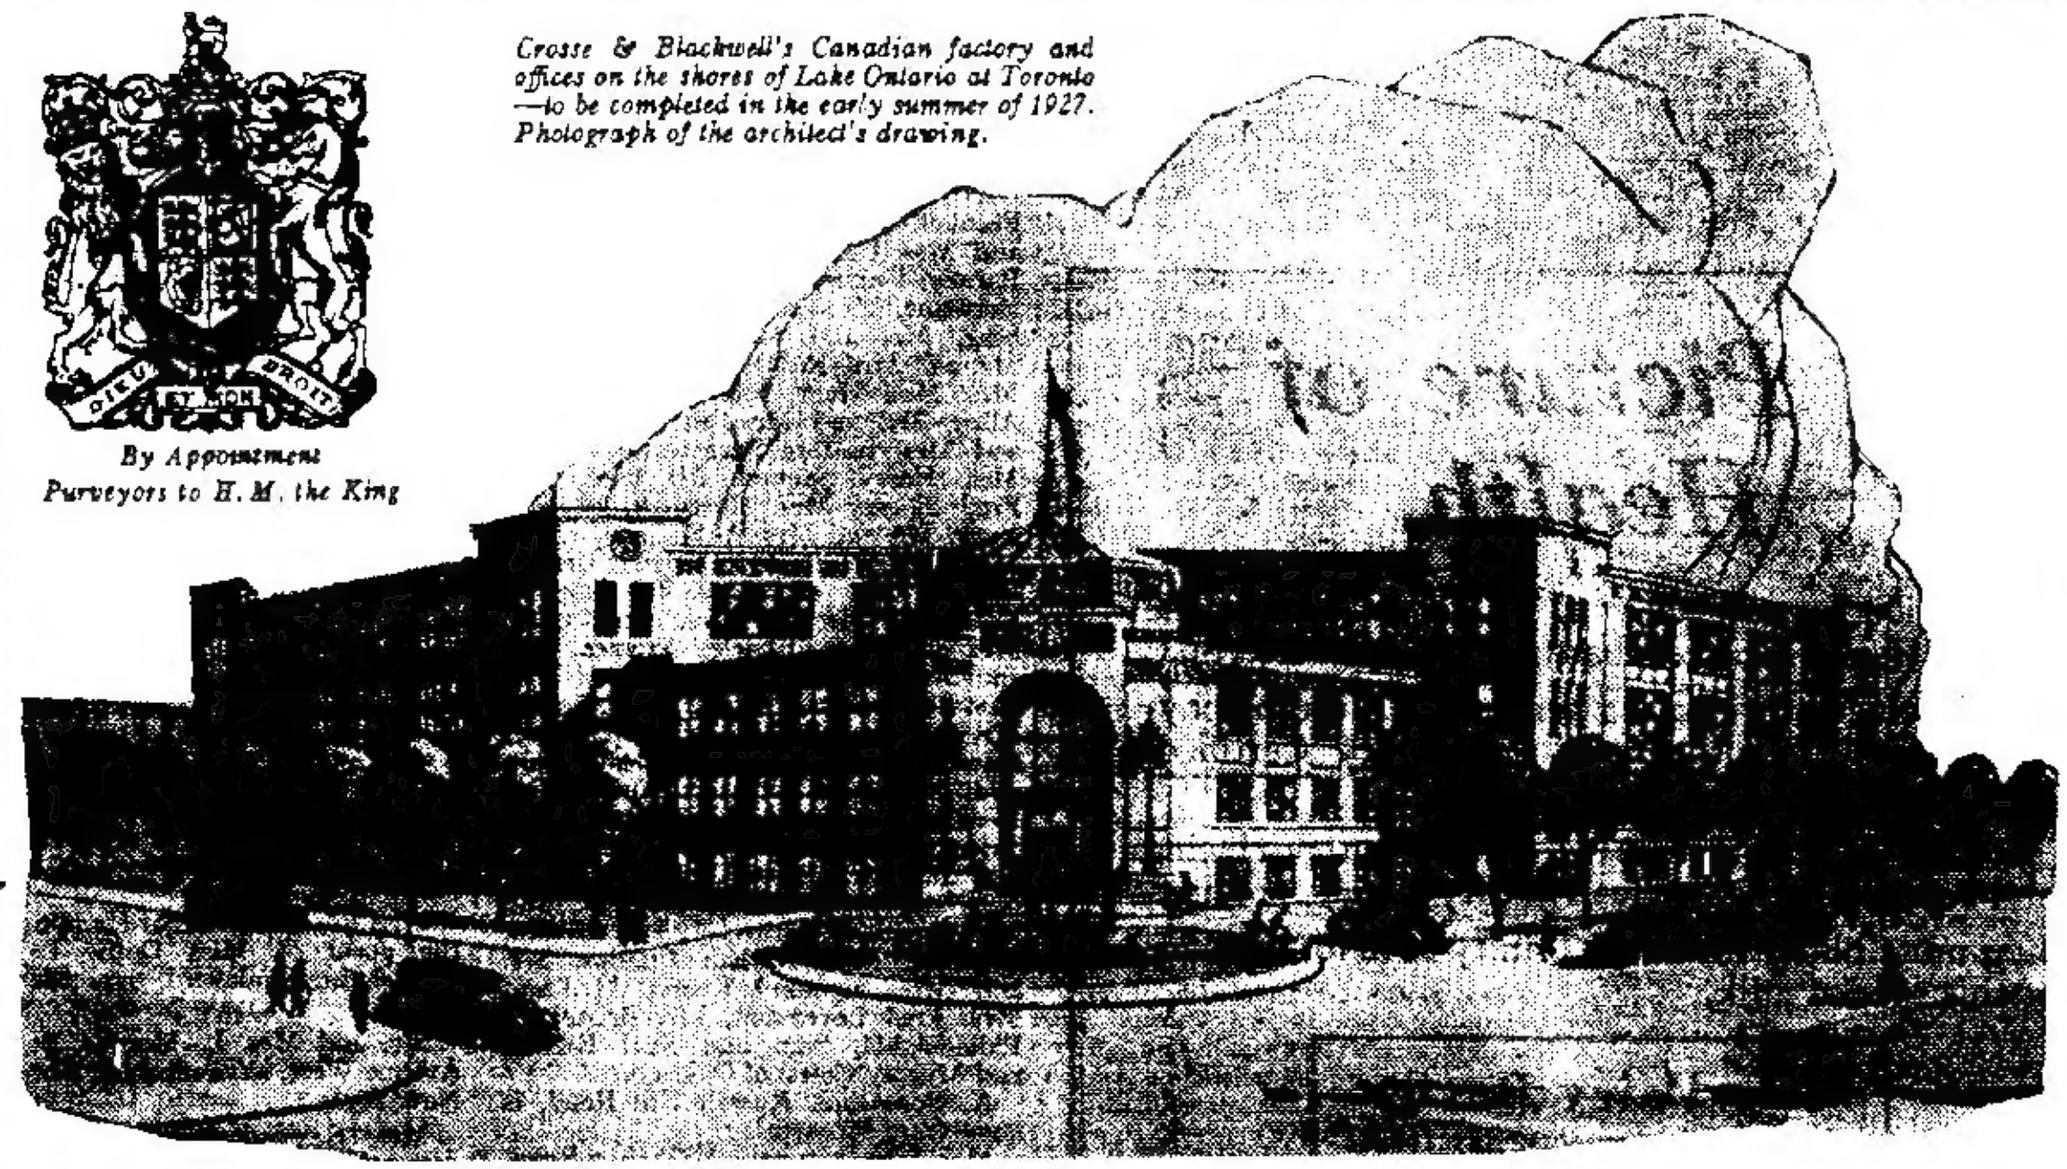
Crosse & Blackwell's Canadian factory and offices on the shores of Lake Ontario at Toronto —to be completed in the early summer of 1927. Photograph of the architect's drawing.



CROSSE & BLACKWELL

—ANNOUNCE the Erection of this Canadian Factory

"The name that is known to the ends of the earth."

Crosse & Blackwell food products have been the choice of Canadians since the earliest days, but now the rapidly increasing demand can only be adequately met by the erection in Canada of a factory—a model of the mother plant in Britain. Here will be produced a complete assortment of jams, conserves, pickles, sauces, potted meats, and the quality of all Crosse & Blackwell products manufactured here will be maintained to the same unexcelled standard of perfection which has prevailed for more than two centuries and which has made Crosse & Blackwell "the name that is known to the ends of the earth." Meanwhile C. & B. products imported direct from England are available at all the grocers who carry high-class goods.

Crosse & Blackwell's products are obtainable in Toronto at Feinsod's and other leading stores.

In planning good things for your table include Crosse & Blackwell products in your shopping list now and ensure new delights in appetising foods.

FEDERATION ANNUAL MEETING

Federation held its annual meeting Sunday afternoon, February 13, at the Toronto Talmud Torah, 9 Brunswick Avenue, with Harry Rotenberg, president, in the chair.

Federation completed ten years of service, in which its income increased from $24,000 in 1917 to $85,000 in 1926. Elected to the board of trustees for three years were: I. Brodey, L. Gelber, Abraham Cohen, David Lavine, Hyman Mendelsohn, Mrs. Harry Marks, Abraham Rosenthal, S. Polakoff, Sigmund Samuel, L. Simon. In commemoration of its ten years' existence and in consideration of the service rendered by Edmund Scheuer, the first president of Federation, and now honorary president, Mr. Scheuer was elected honorary trustee for life. The financial report, read by Abraham Cohen, honorary secretary, showed expenditure of $40,000 for family welfare work; $11,000 to the Jewish Children's home; $17,000, Boys' and Girls' preventive and recreational work; $2,600, Hebrew Maternity Aid Society; $1,250, personal service department; $1,400, Free Burial Society; $8,500, administration; and Mount Sinai Hospital, $4,250. Joseph A. Woolf, executive director, pointed out that whereas more money was spent for family welfare work than ever before in the history of Federation, its resources did not permit placing all the dependent families on a budgetary basis, and that a careful budgeting of such families would necessitate the expenditure of at least $10,000 more for family welfare work. Other recommendations made by Mr. Woolf were a development of foster-home care of dependent children and a larger programme of recreational and preventive work with boys and girls.

Jewish delinquency was reduced through the work of the boys' and girls' clubs and camps, from over 12 per cent. of five years ago to less than 5 per cent. as to-day. Recommendation was also made that Federation should reconsider the practice of accepting family and firm subscriptions, as it would be better policy for a subscription to be made by each individual rather than through his firm or through his family.

Detailed reports of the work of their respective organizations were rendered by Mrs. Charles Draimin, Family Welfare Bureau; Mrs. M. Mehr, Jewish Children's Home; Mrs. M. S. Till, for Maternity Aid; R. Raphael, Boys' Club; Mrs. P. Hermant, Girls' Club; I. Markus, Boys' Camp.

Rabbi F. M. Isserman said that Federation should aim for a budget of $150,000 instead of the present budget of $90,000.

Officers are: Edmund Scheuer, honorary president; Harry Rotenberg, president; E. Pullan, 1st vice-president; Wm. Leibel, 2nd vice-president; Jos. Schwartz, 3rd vice-president; Hyman Smith, 4th vice-president; Abraham Cohen, honorary secretary; Charles Draimin, treasurer.

A complete and audited financial statement of Federation, Family Welfare Bureau and Jewish Children's Home, as well as the report of the executive director, will appear in next week's issue of the CANADIAN JEWISH REVIEW.

Editorial

is to play fair. Well, it is this mood which is expressed in sport. It is this spirit which is codified in the rules of the games.

And the true sportsman represents the noblest phase of the people's character. What, in the world of business or politics, can only be a remote ideal—the ideal of fairness and justice—is actually the governing force in the realm of clean sport.

From all accounts Benny Friedman—the most popular football player in America—represents in his career the finest traditions and ideals of sportsmanship. In the tributes paid to him—by the president of his university as well as by sport-editors and football coaches—emphasis is laid on his sterling qualities of character, his exemplary conduct and his inspirational value to his fellow-players.

And as Jews we have reason to feel glad that we have been able to contribute to American rugby one of the finest exponents of its spirit of sportsmanship and manliness. We have had occasions to blush with shame at the antics of some of our correligionists in the realm of prizefighting. Our American Jewish rugbyists have been a credit to us.

It may be mentioned that a vote taken by one of the enterprising Anglo-Jewish journals last year to ascertain which Jews were regarded as having done most for the Jewish people during the year, placed Benny among the first three Jews who had done most for the honour of the Jewish people.

We greet Benny Friedman—a great athlete, a fine sportsman and an earnest of what the Jews will do for American life in the realm of clean sports.
